OF THE, connecting two words, are implied by writing the following word near, or occasionally joined, to the preceding. 248, and R. 1.

Rem. 2. In the rs of Standard Phonography—

Or, connecting two words (and followed or not by A-N or THE—which may be omitted under 250, 3, and supplied by the aid of the context), is frequently implied by writing the following word near or joined to the preceding one. (b.) Of must be expressed when preceded by a considerable pause, (c.) and, of course when it is easier to express it than to imply it, as sometimes in writing Of thr, Of it, and as is usually the ease in writing Of all, Of our, Of what.

Of sometimes expressed by a Vee-hook 201, R. 4; 264, R. 5, 2.

ves, Petooid<sup>1</sup>-Endher—25; 246; 1; rs, Endher (Of being implied, or expressed by a Vee-hook; thus, act of another, Ket<sup>3</sup>:Endher<sup>2</sup> (or -Endher); out of another, Tet<sup>3</sup>:Endher);—ars, Veedher<sup>1</sup>;
 or by lengthening, or by the Dher-tick,
Of being omitted; thus, Teedher<sup>3</sup>, out of another; Semdher<sup>2</sup>, some of another.
 See Dhr, 3, c, and Of (the) other.

Of any, Petooid<sup>1</sup>-En—25, or with Of implied; thus, Sem<sup>2</sup>-En-Kend, some of any kind.

Of as much, Petooid-Chay<sup>3</sup>, or with
Of implied.

Of Christ, Petooid<sup>1</sup>-Kerst, or Kerst<sup>1</sup>,
Of implied.

Of course he, Petooid<sup>1</sup>-Kers-Chetoid.
 See He.

Of course his (or as), Petooid<sup>1</sup>-Kerses.

Of course I, Petooid<sup>1</sup>-Kers-Tetoid (or -Ketoid). See I. [It.]

Of course it, Petooid-Kers-Tee<sup>2</sup>. See
 Of course it is necessary that there should be, Petooid<sup>1</sup>-Kers-Tees-Enses-Dheedher-Retoid-Bee.

Of course it will, Petooid Kers-Tee<sup>2</sup>- Lay, or Petooid<sup>1</sup>-Kers-Tel<sup>2</sup>.

Of course there (or their), Petooid<sup>1</sup>- Kers-Jedoid (or -Bedoid).

Of course there are, Petooid<sup>1</sup>-Kers-Jedoid-Ar.

Of course there is little chance, Petooid<sup>1</sup>-Kers-Bedoid-Let-Chens.

Of course there is much, Petooid<sup>1</sup>- Kers-Jedsoid-Chay.

Of course they are not, Petooid<sup>1</sup>-Kers-Jedoid-Net.

Of course they have, Petooid<sup>1</sup>-Kers-Dherf.

 (or -Bedoid).

Of course we, Petooid<sup>1</sup>-Kers- we<sup>1</sup> (or -Weh).

Of course you, Petooid<sup>1</sup>-Kers-Yuh (or -Yeh, if more convenient to join to a following word).

Of either, (Petooid -Dher<sup>1</sup>. See Of other and Of their. [plied.])

Of her, Petooid-Ar<sup>1</sup>, or with Of im-

OF HIS (or US), Petooid<sup>1</sup>. Sometimes added to a preceding word by an Ef-hook and Iss; and sometimes by Iss or by enlarging a circle, Of being omitted; thus, Tefs<sup>3</sup> or Tees<sup>3</sup>, out of his:
 Sems<sup>2</sup>, some of his (or us); lthses<sup>2</sup>, thinks of his (or us); Kaysts<sup>1</sup>, cost his.

Of importance, Petooid-Emp<sup>1</sup>, or Of implied; thus, Enter<sup>2</sup>-Emp (or :Emp<sup>1</sup>), matter of importance.

OF IT, ves, Vet<sup>1</sup>. Sometimes added by halving a preceding letter, Of being omitted, or being expressed by a Veehook; thus, Tet<sup>3</sup> or Tef<sup>3</sup>, out of it.
 Sometimes when halving can not be resorted to, and Vet can not be employed so conveniently, Of is omitted, and It expressed by Tee; thus, Ems<sup>2</sup>- Tee (or -Vet), most of it.

Of its (or itself), Of it and -Iss. See
Of it.

Of many, Petooid<sup>1</sup>-Em-En, or Em
 En, Of being implied.

Of me (my, or him), Petooid<sup>1</sup>-Em; or Em, Of being implied.

OF OTHER, ves, Veedher<sup>1</sup>. Frequently added by lengthening; sometimes by the Dher-tick (very rarely Dher-stroke),—Of being omitted. See
Dhr.

OF OUR, es, Petooid-Ar<sup>3</sup>; acs and rs, Petooid<sup>1</sup>. Sometimes added by Ar or Ray, Of being omitted, or expressed by a Vee-hook; or by an Ar-hook, or by enlarging a small El-hook, Of being omitted; thus, Nen<sup>2</sup>-Ray, none of our;
 each of our, Chef<sup>1</sup>-Ar or Cher<sup>1</sup>; Bredoid<sup>1</sup>, all (of) our; of all of our, Vler<sup>1</sup>.

Of our own, Of our with own added by an En hook or stroke according to convenience; thus, Prent-oid<sup>1</sup>, of our own; Nen<sup>2</sup>-Ren, none of our own.

Of that, Petooid-Dhet<sup>1</sup>; or Dhet<sup>1</sup>, Of being implied or expressed by a Vee-hook; thus, Sem<sup>2</sup>:Dhet<sup>1</sup>, or Sem<sup>2</sup>-Dhet; Tee<sup>3</sup>-Dhet, or Tef<sup>3</sup>- Dhet.

OF THE—

(1.) Not connecting words (i. e. after a pause), es, Petooid<sup>1</sup>-Chetoid;—rs, do., if the pause is considerable
 (i. e., semicolon, colon, or period).

(2.) Connecting words, es, implied, usually by writing the following near to the preceding word, and occasionally by joining the following word to the preceding one.—except when one of the words is represented by a vowel-word sign—248; Of sometimes expressed by a Vee-hook; thus, Tefoid<sup>2</sup>-Petoid, out of the; Kefoid<sup>2</sup>-Retoid, and of the; Befoid<sup>1</sup>-Retoid, all of the; —rs, Of sometimes expressed by a Vee-hook (as Tefoid<sup>2</sup>-Petoid, but of the; Kefoid<sup>2</sup>-Retoid, and of the), but usually implied by writing the following near or joined to the preceding word, The being omitted under 250, 3, and to be supplied. (c.) Of the is thus disposed of in the rs, even when a slight pause (as a comma) precedes (i. e., when Of the do not strictly connect words), (d.) and also when one of the words is represented by a vowel-word sign; thus, ī:Gel, eye of the eagle.

OF THE OTHER, es, Dher<sup>3</sup>, Of the being implied; acs, do., or Petoid-Dheedher<sup>2</sup>[yū]; rs, do.—or Dheedher, Of being implied; ars, Veedher<sup>1</sup>, or when connecting words: Dheedher, or, if more convenient, by lengthening, or by the Dher-tick; thus, some of the other, Sem<sup>2</sup>-Dheedher, or Semdher<sup>2</sup>; one of the other, Wendher<sup>2</sup>, or v. en<sup>2</sup>-Dheedher (one of ANOTHER, or one other, Wendher<sup>2</sup>). See Dnr. 3. c.

OF THEIR (or THERE), es, Petoid-Dher<sup>2</sup>; rs, Veedher<sup>1</sup>. Sometimes added by lengthening, Of being implied; or by the Dher-tick, Of being implied or expressed by a Vee hook; thus, Semdher<sup>2</sup>, some of their; each of their, Chaydher<sup>1</sup>, or Chef<sup>1</sup>-Bedoid; Nen<sup>2</sup>-Retoid heavy, none of their; Ems<sup>2</sup>-Jedoid (or -Veedher), most of their.

all of what; Tet<sup>3</sup> or Tef<sup>3</sup>, out of what.

Otherwise he (or me), Dher<sup>3</sup>-Ways-Retoid.

Otherwise his (is, as, or has), Dher<sup>3</sup>-Waysses.

Otherwise I (or a-n), Dher<sup>3</sup>-Ways-Ketoid.

R. 2. The sign Tent<sup>1</sup> (it ought not) is regarded as unvocalized Tont, the first t standing for it; o (implied by position) for ought; and nt for not. Upon the same principle are formed the signs for Which ought not, They ought not. (b.) It is sometimes better for joining a following word to add not by Net to the signs for Which ought, etc.

R. 3. The sign Tef<sup>1</sup> for It ought to have, is regarded as unvocalized Tov, t standing for it; o (implied by position) standing for ought; and the Vee-hook for have, to being omitted and to be supplied. (b.) This plan of representing It ought to have, Which ought to have, etc., originated with the Author, and was first presented by the Hand-Book. p. 169, R. 13. The Old-Phonographic expression for It ought to have, was Tee<sup>2</sup>-Jedoid<sup>1</sup>-Vee. Which ought to have, etc., were represented in a similar way. See It would have, Which would have, etc. (c.) The signs for It ought not and It ought to have appear to be formed upon analogous plans, the sign for It ought not being unvocalized Tont<sup>1</sup>, and the sign for It ought to have being unvocalized Tov<sup>1</sup>. P. This, the sixteenth letter of the English alphabet, is named Pee. (2.) Its usual sound is what is denominated in the Author's analysis of the voice (see Appendix to the Compendium) the middle labial whispered explodent. See p. 210, § 25, No. 36. The corresponding sonant is the sound of b as in bay. (3.) There are four labial hushes: 1. The sounds of English f and v, which are rough sibilants (i. e., hushes) made with the outer portion of the lower lip. 2. Two sounds which, in accordance with the usual plan of expressing sibilation or aspiration, may be represented by ph and bh. (a.) Ph is a hiss formed by bringing the middle of the lips together, as when naturally closed, and extruding the breath after the manner of s. This is the sound of the Latin PH and the Greek φ. (b.) As to the corresponding sonant, bh—which requires the same position of the lips, but the extrusion of the voice (i. e., ə) instead of the whispered breath—see under the letter B in this Dictionary. (4.) As to the sounds of w and wh, see also under the letter B in this work; and so also as to the trills of p and b. (5.) As to the Standard-Phonographic signs for the representation of the labial consonants, see the Compendium, p. 206, § 24, Nos. 35 to 46 inclusive. P.M. (a contraction for post meridiem, i. e., afternoon), pē em, Pee-Em, or pm., in Longhand.

PLEDGET, plej'et, Pel-Jet.
PLEIADES, plē'adēz or plī'adēz, Pel-Dees.
 Pleiades is a simple transfer of the Greek Πλειάδες = plī'ades; and there is no reason in this case for violating the general rule of substituting in pronounci-ation a simple vowel or a diphthong for the Greek diphthong ai; hence I object to the pronunciation plē'yadēz given by Webster. It should be plē'adēz or plī-adēz. And I prefer plī'adēz, retaining the sound (nearly) of the Greek diphthong, as in Meiosis, Teinoscope, Deip-nosophist, Deipnotherium.

R. This, the eighteenth letter of the English alphabet, is named Ar. (2.) The sound usually given to it in America is what is denominated in the Author's analysis of the voice (see the Appendix to the Compendium) the outer palatal hum, which is sonant as in ear, breach, and whispered in preach. This is the smooth, untrilled sound, and belongs to what I denominate liquids, i. e., consonants which require the vocal organs to be in the most open position consistent with the formation of a consonant. p. 204, 16. (3.) There is a trilled r (whispered and sonant), which is the sound usually given to Ar by the Irish and other Europeans. These sounds may be represented by r, rh. The trilled Ar will eventually be displaced by the smooth Ar, by the influence of those principles which have removed from the language other harsh sounds, such as the sound of gh in laugh, for which f has been substituted. (4.) As to the two other Ars, see the Comp., p. 213, R. 5, b, c, and d. (5.) As to the place of these sounds in a scientific inventory of vocal elements, see Comp., p. 211, Nos. 59, 60; 67, 68; 83, 84; 85, 86.

usually as the affix or prefix self [which see below]. p. 118, R. 7, and d. (Pl. SELVES, selvz, Slay-Vees, or by the affix sign. See below.)

SELF, a prefix and affix. (a.) The prefix self- is expressed by Iss written before the first stroke of the remainder of the word; thus, Iss:Ray-Spec-Ket, self-respect; Iss:Ish, selfish; Iss:Dee, self-hood. 228, 14. (b.) As to joining the prefix to contra, etc., or writing it so as to imply con-m-g, see Comp., p. 113, R. 14. (c.) The affix -self is usually expressed by a joined Iss; selves by a joined Ses; thus, Ems<sup>1</sup>, myself; Ems<sup>2</sup>, himself; Dhees<sup>1</sup>, thyself; Ars<sup>3</sup>, ourself; Arses<sup>3</sup>, ourselves; Yayses<sup>2</sup>, yourselves; Dheeses<sup>2</sup>, themselves. (d.) But when the junction would be inconvenient or disallowable, the Iss should be written beside the last stroke of the preceding word; thus, Mens<sup>2</sup>:Iss, man's self; Arn<sup>3</sup>:Ses, our own selves. 232, 13. (e.) Self as a separate word is usually expressed by the affix-sign. See the word and reference above.

TO, tu, ws, Petoid<sup>2</sup>, i. e., u<sup>2</sup> in the direction of Pee. See Of, On, Should, I, and He. 250, R. 2; 260. See To in the Index of the Second Standard-Phonographic Reader.
To expressed by balving ... 266, R. 14.
Rem. 1. Occasionally in the accs, and very frequently in the rs—
To (followed or not by A, AN, or THE—which may be omitted under 250, 3, and supplied by the aid of the context), is implied
 (2.) Or, before horizontal or descending strokes, (a) by writing the former close against the lower edge of the line of writing—see Second Standard-Phonographic Reader, p. 65, N. 1; (b) and by commencing the latter where To (i. e. Petoid<sup>2</sup>) would leave off, i. e., at the lower edge of the line of writing; thus, Ken<sup>4</sup>, to the (or a) question; Men<sup>4</sup>, to men, to the (or a) man, etc.; Ged<sup>4</sup>, to get, to the good, etc.; Sem<sup>4</sup>, to some, to the same, etc.; En<sup>4</sup>, to know (or no), to any, etc.; Ker<sup>4</sup>, to carry, etc.; Pee<sup>4</sup>, to pay; Bee<sup>4</sup>, to buy; Tee<sup>4</sup>, to take, to the time, etc.; Pet<sup>4</sup>, to put; Chay<sup>4</sup>, to which; Jay<sup>4</sup>, to advantage, to the advantage (or

Rem. 2. As to To before ascending letters, see the Second Standard-Phonographic Reader, p. 66, Note 14.

Rem. 3. The advanced reporter may write an ascending stroke's initial attachment in the fourth position, to imply a preceding To; thus, Wayhook<sup>4</sup>-Ray, to the war; Wayhook<sup>4</sup>-Lay, to the wall; Iss<sup>4</sup>-Lay, to the sale; Elhook<sup>4</sup>-Ray, to the relation (or reality); Ses<sup>4</sup>-Lay, to Sicily; Steh<sup>4</sup>-Lay, to steal; Steh<sup>4</sup>-Ray, to the story.

TO between words. See To a-n and To the.

U.

U. (1.) This, the twenty-first letter of the English alphabet, is named Yoo. (2.) Anciently it was not distinguished from V, which was read as Vee or Yoo, as might be required. (3.) From this fact originated the name Double Yoo for W, it being compounded of two V's or Yoo's. (4.) The letter Yoo has six sounds—ū, u, ū, yu, yw, i, e, ā—as in tūne, rude = rūd not ruid, full, up, unite=yunit', union = yun'yon, busy = biz'i, bury = ber'i, buy=bāi=bī. (5.) The sound of what is called "long Yoo," as in tūne, is iu (i. e., i'u, the first element, i as in it, being accented, and the voice gliding to the second element)—a pure close diphthong. 87, R. 1, 2, 3, and 4; SS: 89: 93. It is not ē-u, or more accurately iu (i indicating shortened ē). Tūn, fiu, diū'ti, etc., are disagreeable pronunciations which have been induced, perhaps, by the mistaken analysis (ē-oo) of ū (as in tūne) given by most lexicographers. (6.) Some orthoepists assign to "long Yoo" after r (and some add), l, ch, j, sh, zh, a different sound from what it has after other consonants. Some say that such different sound is oo=u, and others, that it is a peculiar sound, neither ū nor u. But I find no authority for such distinction in the pronunciation of those who have not been misled by false orthoepical teaching; nor can I perceive any possible reason in the nature of sounds or their combinations for such a difference. (7.) Those who attempt invariably to give to "long ū" the sound of yu, would doubtless find a difficulty in saying ryud for rude, lyu for lieu, and would naturally drop y, saying ruid, lui, etc. But no such reason for a false pronunciation exists in the case of those who properly give to "long Yoo" in such words the pure diphthongal sound, iu = ū. For them it is as easy to pronounce iu = ū in rūd, lū, Jū, etc., as in dū, nū, fū; nor do they find any reason or tendency to pervert duke into juik, tutor into ehutor, Thursday into Chuiz dā, as do those who attempt to say dyuk instead of dūk, tyu-tor instead of tū-tor, and Tyuz-dā instead of Tūz-dā. (8.) As to the euphonic changes from ew=ū to yu or yw, or from yu or yw to ū, see Comp., 137. (9.) No valid reason can be assigned why a distinct stenographic sign should not be given to the pure diphthong ū=iu as well as to the pure diphthongs ī=āi, oi, ou. Yet this sound, as distinct from yu and yu as ū is from ū, was not provided with any distinct sign in the Old or English Phonography.

Ew and Yoo sometimes joined, 240, 2.

V.

V. (1.) This, the twenty-second letter of the English alphabet, is named Vee. (2.) Its usual sound is what is denominated in the Author's analysis of the voice (see the Appendix to the Compendium) the ouer ablat sonant hush; i. e., rough sibilant. p. 25, § 20, R. 1. c. (3.) Its corresponding whisper is the sound of V. See under B. (4.) The German V has the sound of aspirated Bee. See under B, 2 and 3. (5.) The Latin V, it is supposed, had the sound of the English W.

W. (1.) This, the twenty-third letter of the English alphabet, is usually called "Double Yoo," but Way would be a better name; for each name of a letter should contain prominently the sound of the letter to which it is assigned. (2.) The usual sound of Way, which is its sound in we, is what is denominated in the Author's analysis of the voice (see Appendix to the Compendium, 20, R. 1, e) the inner labial sonant hum or liquid. (3.) The whispered sound, corresponding to or mating with Way, I denominate the inner labial whispered hum or liquid. This sound, in accordance with the usual mode of indicating aspiration, is properly enough indicated by wh; which combination, since it has the value of a single letter, should be named Whay, and not Double Yoo Aitch! p. 205, 21; § 144; 147; 148. (4.) As to the distinction between the English w and the German w, see under B. (5.) The letter o in one = wū. (6.) When the sound of k is represented by q, a following w sound is always represented by u, as in queen = kwēn. See under Q. (7.) For general rules for the use of the four different phonographic methods of representing w, see Compendium, 116-135 inclusive.

X. (1.) This, the twenty-fourth letter of the English alphabet, is named Ex.
 (2.) It is not ordinarily the sign of a single sound; it may be called a compend or expedient, representing two sounds, k and s. (3.) As to the proper pronunciation of y in the middle of words, see under Ex in this Dictionary. (4.) At the beginning of words, y has the sound of z. (5.) Although this letter has no sound which may not be represented by other letters, it is usefully retained in the Alphabet, even for pronouncing purposes, as a compend, or expedient, as it has been employed in the pronouncing part of this work.

XYSTER, zis'ter, Zeester.

Y. (1.) This, the twenty-fifth letter of the English alphabet, is ordinarily named Wy = wī, but with very obvious and great impropriety, because it does not contain the usual sound of the letter. A better name for it would be Yay. (2.) Its usual consonant-sound, as in yet, is what is denominated in the Author's analysis of the voice (see the Appendix to the Compendium) the middle palatal sonant hum. (3.) The sound of Yay in yet is the sound of the Latin and German j. (4.) The corresponding whisper, ē, e., the mate of y, is sometimes heard in English, as in inhumanity when pronounced inhumaniti. This sound was indicated in Latin by Hj, as in Hjero or Hiero. (5.) In accordance with the usual mode of expressing aspiration and syllabation, the whispered y may be denoted by ẏ and named Yhay. (6.) In Phonography the mark of aspiration usually precedes the y. (7.) Y is sonant following a d or other sonant, but whispered when diphthongally pronounced with a preceding t (as in the Swedish tj=tyh) or other whisper. (8.) Dy and tyh diphthongally pronounced are very nearly like dzh' and tsh', i. e., ch and j; zh' and sh' denoting varieties of zh and sh produced by the tip of the tongue. See the Compendium, p. 214, R. 6. (9.) As to the combination of a sonant or surd y with a preceding consonant, see the Compendium, p. 215, R. 8. (10.) There are four different signs of Yay—namely, y, j, i, u (partly)—as in yet, hallelujah, union, use=yus.
